Communications during the COVID-19 crisis

Students, faculty, and other visitors: We are committed to maintaining communication during this difficult period. Please address your questions and concerns to one or more of the following individuals depending on the course subject. Email is preferred and we will do our best to answer you promptly. You may also phone and leave a message and we will do our best to return your call but there might be more delay. We will be checking emails and phones during business hours. If it's an emergency on the weekend, please contact me, the Chair, and I will do my best to respond. I wish you and your loved ones well during this challenging time. —Ken Levinson
